

In 2020 John took to writing on Medium.com in an effort to tie his experience in training with his techniques for coping with mental distress. His personal development articles there have been called inspiring, motivational and he is considered an expert on personal development to many of his readers and followers.

John now has his own coaching and training practice, based in Tokyo, Japan. He serves clients all over the world. You can find out more about his services at <https://www.synergypersonaldevelopment.com>.

Draft Version